About the Consultant

Mr Andrew Meyenn BEd, Graduate Diploma in Operations Research, MEd, MSc and Doctorate of Education (part completed)

- Many years experience as a teacher and lecturer utilising online environments at: Wesley College, University of Melbourne and Central Queensland University.
- Developer and convenor of a successful and ongoing online Professional Development (PD) program for the International Baccalaureate (IB), which has been offered to teachers of Computer Science on a world-wide basis and has formed the basis on the expansion of this area of the IB's PD programme.
- Currently conducting an evaluation of the program for the IB.
- Doctoral study focuses on factors that lead to successful online education environments.
- Developer of a range of textbooks in the area of Information Technology and Computer Science.

Two Key Problems

- Many online environments have been created, but few have been evaluated to see if intended objectives are being achieved.
- Often individual teachers are hesitant to engage with online environments.

Consulting Service

My consulting service specifically addresses these two key problem areas, by assisting organisations to evaluate online environments and by providing a one-on-one mentoring service, working along-side individual educators helping them meet the challenges of online education.

How do I work? I work on a negotiated fee for service basis.

How to Make Contact? I can be contacted via email on: ameyenn@meyenn.net.au or by phone (03) 95274274

I am looking forward to assisting you and your organisation to meet the learning needs of your students.
